Simplicity

The dignified funeral service of today is one of simplicity. Fads and fancies are avoided. And yet, new innovations are continually making themselves felt. Responsibility in these matters rests, to a very large extent, with the mortician. His duty it is to use discriminating judgment in adopting the new and discarding the old. For the modern mortuary and the service of its personnel are the natural outgrowth of the accumulated experience of years.

has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Hondaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

NORWAY NURSING SERVICE

The Norway Nursing Service committee held its February meeting at the office and a review of the work of the past year was gone over and from the compiled reports is shown the increase of the service. Among the duties of the Community Nurse to look after the school children for defects and when any are found these are reported to the parents, who are advised to consult the family physician, dentist or oculist. With diagnosis, advice and treatment. With correction made when the children are in the grades, it stands to reason that when the boys and girls reach high school, they will be in good physical condition and fifteen years from now, will make healthy citizens. In addition to the school work and bedside calls, the nurse is conducting a class at the high school in Home Hygiene. For this the girls are given one credit in their school work. The nurse works in co-operation with the physicians at all times. The source of income is from the appropriation by the town, the sale of the health seals, and the fees collected from nursing calls. The expenditures include the salary of the nurse, the office rent, telephone, etc., operating the car and supplies.

Farrar as far back as 1888 and happen to have one of them. I remember seeing you at Upper Dam trying your luck for a big one. I lived in Maine until four years ago, born in Bethel and went to school with Walter Chandler."

"If you don't find one you can buy I will loan it to you, as I wouldn't care to sell it. I run across it once in a while and look it over as it brings back old times. There are very few living who were there when I first went to the lakes."

"Capt. E. F. Coburn and I started the same year; he went to the Oxford Club as guide and I went as engineer on the Umbagog. Capt. Coburn stuck and I left there twenty years ago. My last work there was running the steamers for the Berlin Mills Co."

"I have a set of books, messages and papers of the presidents, twenty in number. I would like to sell; they are up to Harding's time. They are in good condition."

Par Po Linn Co. held a joint meeting with the Kiwanis Club, Monday evening in the vestry of the M. E. Church. The speaker of the evening was Supt. Packard. There were also exercises by the children. Supper served by the athletic association.
The boys' basketball team of Porter High School, went to Portland, Saturday, to have their pictures taken.
Helen Pratt of Bates was the week end guest of her parents.
Allan and John Garner from Lowell School of Technology were also among the homecomers.
Marjorie Palmer of Shaw's Business College came home for the week end, but failed to return as soon as usual, on account of a bad cold.

Tamarack Talk

My favorite Lincoln poem is by Vachel Lindsay and is one of the finest and most beautiful tributes ever paid to the "prairie lawyer, master of us all."

Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight
(In Springfield, Illinois)

It is portentous a thing of state
That here at midnight, in our little town
A mortal giant walks, and will not rest.
Near the old court-house pacing up and down,
Or by his homestead, or in shadowed yards
He lingers where his children used to play,
Or through the market, on the well-worn stones
He stalks until the dawn-stars burn away.

A brooded, lank man! His suit of ancient black,
A famous high-top hat and phin worn shawl,
He looks the quaint great figure that men love,
The prairie-lawyer, master of us all.

He cannot sleep upon his hillside now,
He is among us—as in times before,
And who toss and lie awake for long
Breathe deep, and start, to see him pass the door.
His head is bowed, he thinks on men and kings,
Yes, when the sick world cries, how can he sleep?

To many peasants fight, they know not why,
Too many homesteads in black terror weep.
The star of all that hushes him to rest,
He sees the dreadnaughts scorching every main,
He carries on his shawl-wrapped shoulders now
The peace-lover, the soldier, the man of pain.

He cannot rest until a spirit-dawn
Shall come—the shining hope of Europe free:
The League of Nations, the Workers' Earth,
Bringing long peace to Cornland, Alp and Sea.
That all his hours of travail here for men
Seem yet in vain, and who will bring white

That he may sleep upon his hill again!
Vachel Lindsay, poet, bard, visionary
and reformer, in this poem gives us a most profound and appealing and universal eulogy of Lincoln, and it is one of Lindsay's best poems.

Wesley Lee Masters, in "Spoon River Anthology," has written a beautiful poem on Ann Rutledge, who so deeply influenced and held the soul of Lincoln.

Out of me an unworried and unknown
The vibrations of deathless music
"With music toward me with clarity for all"
Out of me the forgiveness of millions toward

And the beneficent face of a nation
Shining with justice and truth.
I am Ann Rutledge who sleep beneath these
Beloved in life of Abraham Lincoln,
Wedded to him, not through union,
But through separating griefs,
Bleed forever, O Republic,
From the dust of bygone days.

Lincoln himself has a truly poetic nature, his thoughts had a background of poetry and he spoke in words that were in themselves poetry for their simplicity. And even as a boy he told that he wrote verses upon a wooden shovel for a slate.

In his plain, forceful language, Lincoln once spoke these words that seem so appropriate at this time when the question of law enforcement and law obedience is uppermost in our minds. He said: "Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lapping babe that prattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books, and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And in short, let it become the political religion of the Nation."

For the youth of today is this thought,—that it is a fine thing for America to make a man great, but finer still for a man to give America greatness.

This is brought out in a poem "Lincoln's Birthday" by Richard Le Gallienne, in the third stanza:

None knew whence Lincoln that deep wisdom
Drew.
So shrewd, so tender; not from books it came,
Nor from a mother's breast, nor from the flame
Of a father's love, the old that fed the flame
Of his great soul some hidden hand did pour:
Lincoln was born—now move the hand no more.
Nor shall America his greatness claim,
Till she has learned from him the way to win it.

Bliss Carman in his poem "The Man of Peace," written for Collier's Magazine, on the hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birthday makes a universal appeal for a lasting memorial to Lincoln, in the last of the eight verses of the poem:

O South, bring all your chivalry;
And West, give all your heart;
And East, your old ungodly dreams
Of progress and of art!
Bid waste and war to be no more,
Bid wanton riot cease;
At your command give Lincoln's land
To Paradise,—to peace.

—Tam.

Now is the time to feed the birds.

AN ECHO FROM THE GOLDEN WEDDING OF MR. AND MRS. LESLIE E. MCINTIRE

That smart and promising little youngster, Master Richard Marston, who will be only six years old next June, had a fine poem on the golden wedding that failed to reach me in time to be printed with the other poems last week. It will be read, I am quite sure, with great interest from its good composition and by such a little fellow.

My Tribute
I'm such a tiny fellow,
You won't expect much from me,

Council of Churches

Credits Co-Operating for Deeds
From Chicago Post

The faith of men in the supreme spiritual reality may express itself in many differing formulae, in many varying rituals, in many sorts of organizations, but in spite of these diversities it has an underlying unity which more and more we recognize, and which tends increasingly to bring us into co-operative relationship for the service of humanity.

Within the Protestant group of sects the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America represents the most comprehensive and more effective instrument for promoting this co-operation.

Recently its executive committee held its annual meeting in Chicago, and surveyed the work which had been done, and the field in which need and opportunity challenge further effort.

There has been a good deal of misunderstanding concerning the aims and methods which characterize the council. Much of this misunderstanding has been created by deliberate misrepresentation on the part of those who are antagonistic to the spread of Christian principles in the world's life.

There is a pagan spirit in America, which resists the message of Jesus. It has its organizations, its newspapers, its magazines, its methods of propaganda and obstruction. There can be no greater tribute to the work of an agency of Christian faith, such as the Federal Council, than the active opposition to the spread of this pagan spirit.

AN ECHO FROM THE GOLDEN WEDDING OF MR. AND MRS. LESLIE E. MCINTIRE

That smart and promising little youngster, Master Richard Marston, who will be only six years old next June, had a fine poem on the golden wedding that failed to reach me in time to be printed with the other poems last week. It will be read, I am quite sure, with great interest from its good composition and by such a little fellow.

My Tribute
I'm such a tiny fellow,
You won't expect much from me,
But just say my little heart
Is as glad as glad can be.

I'm glad because it's Golden Wedding
And we can have such a
But the thing that makes me gladest,
Is to see you every day.

The princely salary of $1,500. Three-fourths of the Washington office budget are expended on assisting the army and navy in the work of chaplains and in aiding disabled veterans.

Statements of the council from time to time have supported the Kellogg treaty, the world court, the work of the League of Nations, the movement for reduction of armaments. In all of these statements it has voiced the sentiment of the enlightened Christian conscience of America.

The paganism which opposes these agencies and movements for a better world order resents the fact that the Christian conscience of America can find such effective and influential expression—that is what lies behind the attacks on the council in this particular field.

Among other activities of the council, which are largely those of research and education, are its efforts to promote in the churches the spirit of social service, and in business and industry the spirit of good will, of better human relations, of stronger emphasis upon the human values. Obviously if the church is true to the ideas of Jesus it cannot neglect the sphere of social service.

Counter opposition, to be understood, to be regarded as a mediator, to sacrifice and to suffer in order that the way of life which its Master taught may become the way of life in every realm of human experience.

And here, as in the international field, the pagan spirit shows its resentment of the influence which a united Christian conscience can exercise. Again that resentment is a tribute to the work of the council, and a challenge to all men of honest faith to stand by the council in brave and loyal support.

The promotion of good will between Jews and Christians is a recent endeavor of the Federal Council which illustrates the breadth of its vision and aims. This endeavor is chiefly directed toward eradicating those prejudices which still exist in Christian circles. It is an educational work which may have the most happy results. The common faith of Jew and Christian in the supreme importance of spiritual values constitutes a ground of sympathetic understanding and co-operation, which, happily, is being cultivated by both sides as never before.
